Fabrics Needed

9" x 12" felt rectangles

Two of the same color

Materials Needed

Pellon[®] 72F Peltex[®]

Bamboo skewers

Glue sticks

One 9" x 12" rectangle

Tools Needed

Iron

Scissors

Hot glue gun

Instructions

Sandwich the double sided Peltex® between the two pieces of felt. Using a pressing cloth, fuse the Peltex® following manufacturer's instructions.

Print the mustache templates on the template page. Cut out each mustache shape. Place one mustache in the top corner of the felt sandwich. Cut out a rectangle around the mustache shape. Repeat with each mustache template shape. Use any extra felt to make multiple mustaches as desired.

Pin each template to the felt. Cut out each mustache shape from the felt rectangles.

Use the sharp end of a bamboo skewer and work it between the Peltex® and one layer of the felt on one side of the mustache. Be careful not to push through the felt.

NOTE: For the skinniest mustache, insert the bamboo skewer at an angle from the side.

Once the bamboo skewer is inserted 1/2" to 3/4" deep, wiggle the skewer to the left and right to wide the hole slightly. Then remove the bamboo skewer.

Put the nose of the hot glue gun into the hole between the felt and the Peltex® layer. Fill the hole halfway with hot glue then immediately insert the sharp end of the bamboo skewer. Press the felt sandwich flat around the bamboo skewer. Wipe away any hot glue that escapes.

Repeat until all mustaches are complete.
